The Game Of BasketballSaturday: February 2, 2013 2:30 PM at Zionsville Release:2/7/20133:05 PM Indiana Pacers vs. Detroit PistonsIMPORTANT WORDS: By Matthew Cubbison Lines of a typical game between the two Indiana Pacers are nearly identical. For the first 5:30 of a home game against the Detroit Pistons, there will be a brief conversation between Indiana coach Frank Vogel and his counterpart, Lawrence Frank, the head coach of the Pistons. This is followed by some time spent in the formation of the starters, with Detroit taking its customary last-minute change of formation, bringing the final scorecard of the game. If the game were to be logged on YouTube after logging off the computer, it would look very little like a typical game. Fans who watch the game at home can witness shoulder-to-shoulder displays of passion as the two teams battle for home court advantage in the race to the Eastern Conference crown. If you happen to be one of the few, the lucky few that sit on the floor right behind the Indiana bench, you can actually see the smiles come into people's eyes as the Pacers start the game and interact with fans. Fans who find their seats are quick to exploit the freebies given out before the game begins, with some of the amenities including poster boards from the pre-game meal, Pacers fan apparel such as T-shirts, and bracelets with the Pacers' logo on it. After Indiana has gathered themselves on the court for the first time, the fans rise on their feet, and the crowd at Bankers Life Fieldhouse grows louder and louder. The energy comes out almost immediately for this visiting team, as the Pacers work to get their hands in a bit of practice before starting the game. Indiana runs through a light warm-up routine, including an individual workout time from each player. This is followed by a couple of stretches, and then the game of basketball is at hand. Michigan native Caleb Swanigan did not start against Detroit, and even though Indiana had him dress for the game, his minutes were limited in the second half. Mark Blount even had a chance to suit up on the court for the former two-time Big Ten Player of the Year. "If I could go back in time, I'd play Mark Blount," said Julian Wright. The three-year veteran doesn't know how to pass the ball, but he is willing to push

Max From the makers of the award-winning SINS comes the most advanced flight simulator ever created. Designed as a multiplayer online experience, players can enjoy the realistic graphics of the SINS engine, and Max! features will be more intuitive than ever before. Tandem cockpits, fully operational cockpit gear, dual cockpits (pilot and copilot), all fully customizable, and 5 unique topographical environments available. SINS (Single Inertial Navigation System) SINS is the first ever flight simulation game to use an entirely unique multi-axis stabilization system. This unique system, SINS, employs the addition of a second gyroscope to the original hardware. This new gyroscope tracks the motion of the aircraft and allows us to add a second level of stability to the physics simulation. SINS is the most dynamic and realistic flight simulation to ever hit the market. SINS is the main driver and root cause of the high quality graphics, simulation technology, and realistic feel of Max! Launching Max! incorporates the most advanced technology, realistic features and most intuitive interface available. A cockpit view coupled with haptic controls is essential to the learning curve of this game. The familiarity of an Xbox Controller that uses motion control technologies, like the old Virtua Fighter, for micro-motion inputs is a work in progress and is not considered standard. Local and Online Multiplayer Max! supports online and local multiplayer. This game is NOT compatible with the XBOX 360 Elite controllers, Xbox 360 paddles, Xbox 360 joysticks or Xbox 360 accessories. Learning Curve Learning curve in Max! is very low and even casual users can enjoy the flying experience. Player Movement The player will use an Xbox 360 controller to manipulate Max! in its online and local online multiplayer modes. Features • 8 Different Topography areas for challenging weather and terrain flying. • Fully-functional Cockpit - Multiple cockpits allow for multiple pilots. Different features can be configured in each cockpit. • Dynamic HUD - A dynamic heads-up-display shows the desired altitude and airspeed. • Realistic Reticle - A realistic reticle shows the current orientation and velocity of the aircraft. • True 3D Physics - Dynamic simulation with realistic flight control and reaction. • Tandem Cockpit - The default cockpit, pilots must be equipped with the appropriate flight suits. • 2 Docking Ports - The game has a first and a second docking port with various functionalities.Q:
